The Best Tobacco
FOR Ten cents a Plug, at J. R. GATTIS.

John Randolph of Roanoke.

(From the Danville Times.)

Mr. Randolph frequently employed ministers of the gospel to preach to his negroes and sometimes when the sermon was over, he would make remarks himself.

He once invited the Rev. Mr. Clopton to pray for him. Mr. C. began, but was soon arrested in his petition.—'Stop sir,' said he, 'If that is the way you are going to pray you must go into the garden or garret.'

On another occasion he said, 'Stop sir if you pray after that manner, God Almighty will damn us both.'

For the following contribution, bearing upon the same subject, we are indebted to the Rev. E. W. Roach, of Charlotte county, Va., who received his information from the Rev. A. W. Clopton. From the high standing of the witnesses, the facts cannot be doubted.

'Mr. Randolph, from the dignity of the Rev. A. W. Clopton's character became peculiarly attached to him. He frequently invited him to his house to preach to his negroes; and on these occasions, he would have them collect from his different plantations, to the number of several hundred, to hear him.'

'On one occasion, after Mr. Clopton had closed the discourse, Mr. R. undertook to deliver an appendix.

'He dwelt on the gratitude due to God for his kindness, and illustrated by his own kindness to his servants. He spoke of the ingratitude shown to the Creator, and illustrated by their own ingratitude for him. 'My ancestors,' said he, 'have raised all of you save one, whom I bought from a hard master for sympathy's sake.'

I have cherished and nourished you like children; I have fed you and clothed you better than my neighbors have fed and clothed their servants. I have allowed you more privileges than others have been allowed. Consequently any good heart would have shown gratitude to me.

But, oh! the ingratitude of the degraded heart. After all my superior kindness, when I was, in my feeble health, sent a minister to Russia, you all thought I would not live to return, and you and the overseer, (damn you—God forgive me), wasted and stole all you could, and came well nigh ruining me. But come back, and I will forgive; come back to God, and I will forgive. 'My negroes,' he said, 'and said, 'Don't think I mean any disrespect by calling you negroes, for I must inform you that negro is only a spanish word for black.'

How to Speak to Children.

It is usual to attempt the management of children either by corporal punishment, or by rewards addressed to the senses, and by words alone. There is one other means of government, the power and importance of which are seldom regarded—I refer to the human voice. A blow may be inflicted on a child, accompanied with words so actuated as to counteract entirely its intended effect; or the parent may use language quite unobjectionable in itself, yet spoken in a tone which more than defeats its influence. What is it which lulls the infant to repose? It is an array of mere words.
There is no charm to the untutored one, in letters, syllables, and sentences. It is the sound which strikes its little ear that soothes and composes it to sleep. A few notes, however unskillfully arranged, if uttered in a soft tone, are found to possess a magic influence. Think we that this influence is confined to the cradle? No; it is diffused over every age, and ceases not while the child remains under the parental roof. Is the boy growing rude in manner, and boisterous in speech? I know no instrument so sure to control these tendencies as the gentle tones of a mother. She speaks to her son harshly does but give to his conduct the sanction of her own example. She pours oil on the already raging flame. In the presence of duty, we are liable to utter ourselves harshly to children.
Perhaps a threat is expressed in a loud and irritating tone; instead of allaying the passions of the child, it serves directly to increase them. Every fretful expression awakens in him the same spirit which produced it. So does a pleasant voice call up agreeable feeling. Whatever disposition, therefore, we would encourage in a child, the same we should manifest in the tone in which we address it.

CHICKENS BY STEAM.—The Savannah, Georgia News is responsible for the following: Among the entries made yesterday for exhibition at the fair of the Industrial Association is a patent incubator, for the purpose of hatching chickens. During the fair the incubator will improve the shining hours to the extent of hatching out five hundred chickens a day. Attached to the machine is an artificial mother, which when the chickens are once fairly hatched assumes control of the brood, and proceeds to exercise the maternal functions after the most approved style.

Let another's passions be a lecture to thy reasons.
Never insult misery, deride infirmity nor despise deformity.
Men like books, have at each end a blank leaf; childhood and old age.

THE SAVIOUR AS DESCRIBED BY A RO-MAN GOVERNOR.

At the period when the fame of Jesus Christ began to spread in Judea, Publius Lentulus, who was then its Governor, wrote to the Roman Senate:

'There is here, at the present time, a man of singular virtue, who is called Jesus Christ; the barbarians esteem him as a prophet, but his sect adore him as a descendant of the immortal gods. He restores the dead to life, and heals diseases by a word and by his touch. He is of tall and graceful stature, his aspect is mild and venerable. His hair is of a color which cannot be described, falling in ringlets below his ears, and spreading over his shoulders with infinite grace. He wears it parted on the top of his head after the manner of the Nazarenes. His forehead is broad and smooth, his cheeks are tinged with a lovely bloom. His nose and mouth are admirably regular; his beard bushy, and of the same color as his hair, descends an inch below the chin, and, separated in the middle, it assumes the form of a fork.
His eyes are beautiful, sparkling, clear and vivid. He reproves with majesty, and his exhortations are full of sweetness; whether he speaks or acts, he does all with eloquence and gravity. He has never been seen to laugh but has often been known to weep. He is very temperate, very modest, and very wise. In a word, he is a man, who by his great beauty, and his divine perfections, surpassed the children of men.'

Modes of Salutation.

The usual salutation at Cairo is, 'How do you sweat?' a dry, hot skin being sure indication of destructive ephemeral fever.
Greenlanders have none, and laugh at the idea of one person being superior to another.

Islanders, near the Philippines, take a person's hand or foot and rub it over their face.

Laplanders apply their noses against the person they salute, very strongly.

In the Straits of the Sound they raise the left foot of the person addressed; pass it gently over the right leg, and thence to the face.

The inhabitants of the Philippines bend very low, placing their hands on their knees and raise one foot in the air, with the knee bent.

The Dutch who are considered as great have a morning salutation, common among all classes, 'Snaaklykeeten.' 'May you eat a hearty dinner.' Another is, 'Hoe wa art uwe?' 'How do you sail?' adopted, no doubt, in the early periods of the Republic, when they were all navigators and fishermen.

Some authors have observed, in contrasting the haughty Spaniard with the frivolous Frenchman, that the proud, steady gait and inflexible solemnity of the former were expressed in his mode of salutation—'Come esta?' 'How do you stand?' while the 'Comment vous portez vous?' 'How do you carry yourself?' was equally expressive as the gay motion and incessant action of the latter.

In some parts of Africa a young woman, an intended bride, brings a little water in a calabash, and kneeling down before her lover desires him to wash his hands. When he has done this, the girl, with a tear of joy sparkling in her eyes, drinks the water.
This is considered the greatest proof she can give him of her fidelity and attachment.

An Ethiopian takes the robe of another and ties it about him, so as to leave him almost naked.

The Japanese take off a slipper, and the people of Arracan throw their sandals in the house, when they salute.

Two negro kings on the coast of Africa salute by snapping the middle finger three times.

The inhabitants of Carmine, when they show particular attachment, open a vein and present their blood to the friend as a beverage.

If the Chinese meet after a long separation they fall on their knees, bend their faces to the earth two or three times, and use many other affected modes. They have also a kind of ritual or academy of bows, by which they regulate the number of bows, genuflections and words to be spoken on certain occasions. Embassadors practice these ceremonies forty days before they appear in court. The common salutation in the southern provinces of China, among the lower order, is 'Yafen?'— 'Have you eaten your rice?'

In Otaheite they rub their noses together.
Do with trials as men with new hats—put them on and wear them until they become easy.
By bestowing blessings on others we entail them on ourselves.
It is our part to wait and trust; and the Lord's to dispose and govern.
The cultivation of the moral nature in man is the grand means for the improvement of society.
Brevity is in writing what charity is to all the other virtues. Righteousness without the one is worth nothing, nor authorship without the other.—Skinner Smith.
Known unto God are all future events and contingencies. I have thrown myself blindfold, and, I trust, without reserve, into His Almighty hand.—Whitehead.

DEATH AND THE GRAVE.

'I am hungry,' said the Grave, 'give me food.'

Death answered:
'I will send forth a minister of awful destruction, and you shall be satisfied.'
'What minister will you send?'
'I will send alcohol. He shall go in the guise of food and medicine, pleasures and hospitality. The people shall drink and die.'

And the grave answered:
'I am content.'

And now the church bells began to toll, and the mournful procession to advance.

'Who are they bringing now?' said the Grave.

'Ah,' said Death, 'they are bringing a household. The drunken father aimed a blow at his wife. He killed the mother and her child together, and then dashed out his own life.'

'And who,' said the Grave, 'comes next, followed by a train of weeping children?'

'This is a broken-hearted woman, who has long pined away in want, while her husband has wasted his substance at the tavern. And he, too, is borne behind, killed by the hand of violence.'

'And who next?'

'A young man of generous impulses who, step by step, became dissipated, and squandered his all. My agent turned him out to be frozen in the street.'

'Hush!' said the Grave, 'now I hear a wail of anguish that will not be silenced.'

'Yes, it is the widow's cry. It is the only son of his mother. He spurned her love, reviled her warning, and a bloated corpse he comes to thee. And thus they come—further than the eye can reach, the procession crowds to thy abodes. And still led by the enchanting cup which I have mingled, the sons of men crowd the paths of dissipation. Vainly they dream of escape, but I shut behind them the invisible door of destiny. They know it not, and with song and dance and riot, they hasten to thee, O Grave! Then I throw my fatal spell upon the now throngs of youth, and soon they, too, will be with thee.'

During the recent terrible fires in Western Michigan, there were three brothers, owners of valuable mills and other buildings, which they and their neighbors (some of whom were Christian men) were defending from the fires until all were exhausted and in despair. One of the owners, a frank rough, wicked man of huge frame and generous impulses, said many hard words about God's permitting the destruction of so much property for no good to any one, &c.
&c. Finally, he gave up and said to his neighbors, 'Go home, go home, nothing more can be done for us, God can do as he pleases.' Just then a few drops of rain fell looking up, they saw the cloud, and all redoubled their efforts. A slight rain fell, the fire was checked and the mills saved.
The rough man dropped upon his knees, great tears rolled down his face, his hands were clasped, head bowed, and he agonizing to express his thanks. Suddenly he sprang to his feet, vigorously swinging his hat, and with the most intense earnestness shouted 'Hurrah for God! HURRAH FOR GOD!'

A WONDERFUL PREACHER.

A correspondent of the St. Louis Advocate gives the paragraph following, concerning a new star which has just been discovered in the galaxy of Southern Methodist luminaries:

'On Saturday, there came to the meeting from a mountain circuit on which he is a 'supply,' a man of most wonderful powers.
Born in the mountains of North Carolina, the son of a Methodist preacher, surrounded by no other refinements than the true refinements of religion, he grew up to manhood without education. At twenty one he purchased his first English grammar. He studied it and mastered it. Rhetoric, logic, natural sciences, followed. God called him to preach. He refused. Affliction came—long severe, intense. It passed, and he yielded to the call, he began his ministry. Providence threw him in the mountains of Georgia on missionary ground, and there he has a circuit.
He came to our camp meeting. Plain, unassuming, deeply devout, he came to work for his master. He preached for us three times, and of the three, two such sermons I never heard. Have heard the preachers of great note in our church; have heard Bishops Elliott and Beckwith and Johns. Have heard Stephens, Toombs and Douglas in their palm-ist days, but never did hear from mortal lips eloquence that thrilled like the eloquence from the lips of that mountain missionary. Without a single grace of eloquence, his grand thoughts were like huge nuggets of pure gold thrown out by the rude miner from a California vein. The very remembrance of some passages of the sermon on the spirituality of man's nature, and God's response to it, cause my nervous tingle even now.'

The men who never made a mistake never made a discovery.

The sorrows of believers are better than the joys of sinners.

A GIRL SURGEON.—Italy, that land of wonders, at present has a sensation in the person of La Regina dal Cio, a peasant, whose skill in setting dislocated limbs surpasses that of trained Italian surgeons—at least those who practice in and about Cene-da-Vittoria, where she lives. Her mother had a 'natural gift' for correcting distorted limbs, straightening them out and setting them when they were dislocated, and this gift she seems to have bestowed upon her daughter. When yet young the girl was accustomed attentively to examine the legs of fowls and other small animals, and thus picked up some knowledge of comparative anatomy, which she afterward complemented by examining that of a man at a hospital to which she was admitted. She was unable to read or write, and was, in fact, so grossly ignorant as not to know the names of the bones which she nevertheless set, when more learned practitioners declared that such an operation was impossible. Her great success attracted the attention of physicians, who managed to have her sentenced to two months' imprisonment, although the sentence was not carried into effect. Finally, however, public opinion decided that she was not to be interfered with, and the authorities gave her permission to attend to as many cases of luxation as she should choose to, and so her native town has become famous, and cripples from all parts of Europe flock to it to be healed.

SONG OF THE GIRL OF THE PERIOD.
—Tell us not, in idle jingle, 'marriage is an empty dream'; for the girl is dead that's single, and things are not what they seem.
Life is real, life is earnest, single blessedness a fib; 'man thou art to man returned,' has been spoken of the rib. Not enjoyment and not sorrow is our destined end or way, but to act that each to-morrow finds us nearer marriage day. Life is long, and youth is fleeting, and our hearts, though light and gay, still like pleasant drums are beating wedding marches all the day. In the world's broad fields of battle, in the bivouac of life, be not like dumb, driven cattle—be a heroine—a wife! Trust no future, however pleasant, let the dead past bury its dead; set—not in the living present, hoping for a spouse ahead. Lives of married folks remind us we can live our lives as well, and departing, leave behind such examples as will 'tell'—such examples that another, wasting time in idle sport, a forlorn, unmarried brother seeing shall take heart and court. Let us, then, be up and doing with a heart on triumph set; still contriving, still pursuing, until each one a husband get.

GEO. FRANCIS TRAIN ON GRANT.

Grant is the most gigantic sell error played off on an outraged people. [Sensation.] He is an ignoramus. He thinks Lafayette came from Germany and the Hessians from France. [That's so.] Hence he sided with a rotten empire against a live republic.
[Hisses.] Don't kiss him; he don't know any better. I never see the General that I don't feel like saying: General, I've only five minutes, tell me all you know. [Laughter.] You might as well try to light a wet squib as to get a popular cheer for the great dead-beat, dead-head, bribe taker! [Sensation and applause.] His passage through the East and West is a funeral cortege, with Morton, Butler, and the official thieves as pall-bearers. [Sensation.] His own party swallowed him as they would a dose of salts and senna. [Laughter.] They are ashamed of him. His ignorance, his nepotism, his disgusting habits, are minutely portrayed by Sumner, Tilton and Phillips, once his bosom companions. [Laughter.] Greely and Butler lose him while the party obliges those professional backs to sleep with him. [Laughter.] A fast horse, a short six, some rotgut, a tan-yard, a big steal, and stolid stupidity make up his grand total. [Hisses.]

PORK-PACKING IN LOUISVILLE.—The Louisville (Ky.) Courier Journal of the 14th inst., gives the annexed concerning the opening of the pork-packing season in that city. There are thirteen firms in the city engaged in this business. Six have commenced killing up to this time. The season begins a very little later than usual, owing to the weather, and the latter now is not favorable for operations in this line: But the prospects are good for a larger business this season than the last. It is estimated that if the calculations of the pork men turn out correct, about three hundred thousand hogs will be killed in Louisville before the season closes. There were only about two hundred and forty thousand slaughtered here last year. The packers of Louisville are now paying more for hogs than is being paid at any other point. Prices here range from 4 to 4 1/2 c. One gentleman bought several lots yesterday at 4 1/2 c., and a fine lot at 4 1/2 c., and others are purchasing at the same figures. The pork business here differs from that of other places in the fact that there are no rib sides put up here. Rib sides are those in which the backbone of the hog being cut in two lengthwise, half is left on each side. There is no market here for these rib sides, and therefore the only brands prepared are those known as clear rib and clear sides.

Suspicion and distrust are the greatest enemies to friendship.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

Accounts have been sent out from this Office that remain unheeded by the recipients. Look out!

To WOOD HAULERS—How long do you calculate a printer can freeze on your promises to pay your subscription in wood? These "promises" have about played out.

Second Crop Potatoes.

We were recently shown an Irish potato—second growth this year—fully as large as a goose egg—it was one of a second crop raised by Mr. Henry N. Brown, of this place.

Catched him fast.

A few days ago the Raleigh Carolinian copied an article from the N. Y. Advertiser's Gazette on "Typo's Errors" and withholding the credit that belonged to that paper changed it so as to give its paternity to the Recorder. The idea, we suppose, was "bait"—to get us after the Carolinian for errors we had not made and a paragraph we had not concocted—all for a little fun. But we had time to do so, a City "Ink-slinger" pitched in and copying the article of the Carolinian, paraded under its title of the "Gazette," and headed the two articles "remarkable coincidence." We feel better this evening as the sun rose in the east in the morning and promises to go down behind those western hills as usual, and if the Gazette feels "fired" about the article having the appearance to come from the Recorder, it is proper to say the Editors of this paper had no hand in it.

Rogue Caught.

Allen Thompson, a man of color, becoming enamored with a pair of shoes in the store of Mr. Charles M. Parks, on Saturday night last, "lifted" them by the sleight-of-hand performance and as they proved not to be a good "fit," Allen took them to the store of Mr. H. N. Brown, where he proposed a swap. The matter excited Brown's suspicions and it was soon made evident that Allen had stolen the shoes, whereupon he was nabbed and sent to jail in default of bail.

How to speak to Children.

Please read the article with the above caption on the first page of this paper, and govern yourself accordingly when you speak to a child. There's a whole volume of good sense and truth in that article.

The Tremaine Brothers.

Played our brothers of the Charlotte Observer a very shabby trick, and we are sorry to hear it, as it lowers the party tremendously in our estimation. We gave the "Brothers" two local notices (one of which was written by their Agent) without charge, and they "complimented" us with three tickets—we carried three children into the "show" and offered pay on one of them which the door keeper took without a grunt. This little incident was a straw, but it left a "spot." Had we charged for the local notices (as we mean to do hereafter,) the Tremaine Brothers would have shucked $10.

BRIDGE OVER DAN RIVER.

We publish the following extracts from private letters relating to Bridging the Dan at Milton, and take the occasion to call the attention of the Legislature to the importance of the subject. A Bridge at this point is a matter of vital necessity not only to the people in that corner of Caswell county but to the travelling citizens generally. In Person, Granville, Orange, and indeed, the "rest of mankind."

Cuninghame's Store, N. C., Nov. 20, '71.

I am pleased to see you agitating the question of a Bridge over Dan River at Milton. It is badly needed, and I, among the great mass of the people of Person, have been seriously inconvenienced by the absence of this Bridge. But I see no chance for rebuilding it unless the Legislature acts upon your suggestion. It is out of the question for the Township to build it unless the Legislature allows the public tax paid by that township to be appropriated that way to an amount adequate to the cost of the work. Keep the ball moving.

Dusky Fork, N. C., Nov. 21, 1871.

GENTLEMEN: I see you are after a Bridge at Milton over the Dan. Such a Bridge would be a great public blessing, and the Legislature would confer a blessing on the people worth talking about by providing means for rebuilding it. Yours truly, Old Orange at the Fairs.

Old Orange is by no means a fussy county, but for pretty girls, smart men and taking premiums at agricultural Fairs, she can clean out any County in the State.

Among the articles at the Wilmington Fair (which was a great success,) from this town that took first premiums we may mention the Hay of Mr. James Norwood, which was awarded a premium of $50 for the largest yield. And Messrs Webb & Rhoulhae, tobaccoists, took first premium on their Smoking Tobacco. We see that their Tobacco also took the premium at the Alabama State Fair, and we hear that it came so near taking "first" at the Richmond Fair the Committee hesitated a long time to decide against it.

Miss Margaret Norwood of Hillsboro took a $15 premium on the best hand-made shirt.

Mrs. Hawks, of Durham, took the special premium of a magnificent tea set for the largest number of meritorious articles exhibited in the household department.

The eye of capitalists is invited to the sale advertised in this paper by John A. and James Barnett, of Person. The Mill is perhaps among the best in the State situated on the largest mill pond we ever saw, and which is noted for its fine fish of every kind common to fresh water.

(From our own Correspondent.)

I am now sitting in the baggage car—the train rumbling—on top of four trunks piled one on top of the other. So if my manuscript is a little zig-zagged you must excuse me; for you know that's the way the cars run. Frank Erwin is the Baggage Master and he's a whole boy. An "old reb" who went it through under old Early and who fought his way up to Captaincy of his company "K" of the 45th North Carolina—under Gen. Daniel, Brigade Commander. It is a mournful fact that these fighting old rebs are fast falling into the decay of the forgotten times and their "fancy men"—who laid like lap dogs in their ladies' parlors while the fight was going on and the lice crawling—are now the jumping Johnnies of these times. Our pen shall always keep them before the public.

RALEIGH.

Well, the Legislature have arrived and "taken rooms." That's their chief business it seems. They all appear in an unfeeling humor to curry favor with the people. Indeed they speak of adjourning by Christmas! What did they come for? The Governor's message was read on yesterday. And Mr. Welch has put a resolution before the House to be made a special order for Thursday at twelve o'clock declaring Zeb Vance's seat vacant as United States Senator and going into the election for another man. This is level enough. But why didn't they elect Ransom at first when the Recorder proposed it and was cussed at for doing so? Now they say Ransom is the man. Oh yes! Their beard has grown longer.

As to the purging of this body of their kink members this is all stuff. Of course the Legislature can't take cognizance of crimes that the civil law has never touched. And unless it be proven to them that one of their number has acted in a manner unworthy and sufficient to disgrace him before their eyes they have nothing to do. Senator Robbins has introduced a resolution to incorporate "three dollars a day per diem" in the Constitution. This is all bosh. And a legislature that would adopt it deserves to serve all their lives picking up scraps in a market house. Who wants a Legislature at three dollars a day? Not North Carolina, I am sure. Mr. Robbins must adopt other means to honey votes. He had better do like Mr. Atwater give a dollar a day to the poor! Ha, Ha! No. Five dollars a day is little enough for legislators.

There is something that this legislature has never thought of: It is the practical wants of their constituents. Let them attend to the bridges, the railroads, the county roads, the farms, the grog shops, the seducers, the street bullies, the mayors of towns (in giving them more power) the freights of the farmer, in fact, everything that will make a poor hard working man feel he is benefited.

MODERATION.

I notice a mighty change in the politics now in Raleigh, and that which was here some two years ago. The very hot-headed politicians have become moderated. And I am glad to see it. It augurs an era (yet to come) of Peace on earth and Good Will toward all men. May God hasten that day.

Col. Brown of the senate is here (from Caswell.) But as yet, Tuesday night, Col. Withers of the House, nor Paylor, have arrived. Neither have the Person or Rockingham representatives arrived. Our friend Strudwick came down Monday night and is boarding at the Yarrowburgh. Maj. Graham has not arrived as yet.

The Yarrowburgh Hotel is actually over-run with custom. And well it deserves it. Dr. Blackhall ought to keep two hotels in Raleigh—and that would not be enough.

Person Court.

Judge Tourgeau having failed to hold this Court (on account of indisposition) at the regular term, is holding an appointed session this week, but we doubt if any body but himself, a few lawyers and the Sheriff of the county are aware of it, as we know nothing about it until Saturday. Why was it not advertised?

This Court coming on the day and week of the re-assembling of the Legislature, Mr. John W. Graham, our able and clever senator, was prevented taking his seat in the senate last Monday—he being counsel in an important suit to be tried.

We regret it was not convenient for us to attend this court, but hope none of our subscribers attending it shed tears because they could not see us to settle up. Friends, don't wait for us to go after you for the little dues—send by mail. It does not pay us to stop work and chase down money that ought to come to us without the trouble and expense of hunting after it. We seldom sally out on errands of this kind that we do not get soaking wet.

P. S. Since putting the above in type, Major Graham has returned from Roxboro, which place he left Tuesday evening, and up to which period the Judge failed to come to time. We hardly think the Judge dilly-dallied on the route playing Ku Klux!

An honest Colored Man.

Wm. Mitchell is a colored man—one of the "old issue" of freemen—residing near Danville, Va., who ran Boats on Dan River from Danville to Gaston and Weldon, many years, and was considered one of the most honest Boatmen that ever pushed a Boat or wore the water title of Captain. About 26 years ago he subscribed for the Milton Chronicle—and has been a regular subscriber of ours from that day. He invariably paid in advance until within the last year or two. Recently we sent him his account, and, unlike many of our white subscribers who throw their ac. one side and pay it no attention, he promptly responds, as follows—

DANVILLE, VA., Nov. 18, 1871.

Mr. Evans—Sir: I received your account and feel ashamed to think I sent you the money in this letter. I had expected to see you at the Danville Fair but I did not. I have not got the money now but soon as I can strip some Tobacco you shall have it. You must not think hard of me. When I had your money I had to spend it to support my family: I've had bad luck for several years—freshets in Hogan's Creek swept my corn crops, while the rogues took my hogs, chickens and geese. I made six boxes of very good tobacco this year. I was glad to hear from you—long may you wave!

Your most humble servant,

WM. MITCHELL.

CEDAR GROVE TOWNSHIP, 1

Nov. 21st, 1871.

Editors Recorder: The North Carolina and Virginia Conference of the Christian Church convened at Mount Zion Church in the eastern portion of this Township on Friday the 17th inst. and will adjourn today. About fifty ministers are in attendance. Your correspondent was present on Sunday. The congregation has been large and everything has passed off quietly and pleasantly. Rev. W. B. Wellons of Suffolk Va. preached the morning sermon in the church on Sunday. Rev. J. M. Ferrell of Chatham county preached in the Grove to a respectable and attentive audience. In the evening Rev. Mr. Apple occupied the pulpit in the church and Rev. A. Isely the stand in the Grove. The latter is a stout and weighty preacher with lungs enough if properly divided out, to materially benefit a half dozen weak lunged brethren, and then have enough left for all ordinary purposes.

There were a sufficient number of one armed and one legged rebels in attendance to remind us of our late "omnipotence," and to cause us to send up a fervent prayer to Heaven that no more war should ever curse our fair and sunny south, and that peace, quiet, and good feeling may be established in both state and church. We forgot to mention that Rev. W. G. Clements of Morrisville N. C. who lost an arm while serving his country in the gallant 6th N. C. assisted Rev. Mr. Ferrell in the morning service.

TELEGRAPHIC.

GREENSBORO, Nov. 20th, 1871.

C. N. B. EVANS—You are hereby invited to attend an Entertainment given by the Examining Committee of the R. & D. Hill Road to-night, at Benbow's Hotel, Greensboro. Don't fail to come.

GEO. G. LINDSAY, Agent R. & D. R.

We publish the above to acknowledge the receipt and return thanks to the Examining Committee. It would have given us great pleasure to have attended the Entertainment, but the Telegraphic dispatch was not delivered us until six o'clock P. M. (21st) the day after the fact! A "dispatch" by Mail would have reached us several hours sooner, though too late.

The following lines, copied from a Charleston, S. C. paper, breathe a sentiment that pervades every neighborhood in the South. Thousands of "Ole Mam's" may be found here in the South who are prepared to join in the song and make the welkin ring. We can see, with the eye of imagination, this clever old darkey sitting in her "cabin do" with pipe in hand and singing this song while the tears run from her eyes. The Southern whites appreciate these "Ole Mam's" and will divide their last crust with them. Who in this Southern clime has not had his "Ole Mam's"? The Senior Editor of this paper remembers his fifty years back and he remembers too that the old darkey felt himself licensed in common with "Ole Missis," to exercise the spanking prerogative. The Junior, too, had his "Ole Mam's" who wept as though her heart would break when she heard he had fallen on the battle field dangerously wounded. But both of these old darkeys have gone to their long home, and hallo! be their ashes. To the song:

IT'LL NEVER COME NO MO'. I've been a 'waitin' long for de good ole time Dat 'll never come no mo'; When I used to rock an' work an' sing In de little cabin do'.

My Sam was dar wid his fiddle, Po Sam; he's gone—done dead! Dead for de want ob food an' clothes, An' de shelter ober-head.

An' little Mose—well, he's dead too! How he used to dance an' sing, While Jim an' Polly an' all de res' Went 'roun' an' rou' de ring.

Ole Missis—bless her dear ole soul— Would laff till her sides giv way, An Massa' stop at my cabin just To say "How's Ole Mammy to-day?"

De boys—I mean ole Massa's boys— Day lubbed ole Mammy too, Who would 'em—ev'ry blessed one, Clean down to little Massa' Loo.

Po Massa' Loo! He went to de fight But he never come back no more We hear dat he fall, wid a bullet in de breast, In de front ob de battle roar.

He'd put his arms aroun' my neck An' say, "Mammy, I lub you so!" He didn't see no harm in dat. Do his Mammy was black and po'.

Ole Missis died wid a broken heart When de las' ob de boys was killed, An Massa bowed his head an' cried Dat his cup ob sorrow was filled.

An' yere I've sot, a waitin' an' watchin' For de good time comin' no mo', An' I see ole Missis a callin' Mammy Across from de odder sho'.

DIED at her residence in Southern Caswell, on Saturday morning Nov. 4th, Mrs. BARBARA E. PINNIX, widow of the late John C. Pinnix. Sad, indeed, is the heart of him who records the death of a friend so amiable, generous and so useful in woman's sphere.

She possessed all the qualities, that made the lady, the christian and the devoted mother, the last of which she was peculiarly fitted.

She leaves behind five dutiful children, who mourn with sad and broken hearts their irreparable loss, but with the sweet assurance that she now walks the golden streets of the New Jerusalem. All was done for her that kind friends and skillful physicians could do, but alas! the sad messenger, death, claimed her as his own and carried away the kind friend, mother and neighbor, whose dying words were, "I know that my redeemer liveth, I am going home."
